Over the past two years as President of the Albuquerque Community Foundation, I have talked to many people and have had some remarkable experiences when discussing the reasons why individuals should make philanthropy an important part of their life. Since you can’t take it with you, why not make a giving plan now, which will benefit you during your lifetime and the community long after you are gone?

The most obvious reason for philanthropy is that we all have an obligation to the community that has enriched us and has allowed us to live a good life. This responsibility escapes some of our neighbors. When I asked one friend what his philanthropic interests were, he said, “I try to play a lot of golf.” Another said, “My charity is that I have a lot of customers who don’t pay.”

If giving back because it’s the right thing to do doesn’t resonate with you, there are selfish reasons why you should become a philanthropist. Helping to make the community healthier and better educated makes the entire community better. You will live in a better place, your business will be in an economically stronger place, crime will decrease, and everyone benefits.

Another reason to become a philanthropist: it’s good for your health! Over the past five years, I have become fascinated by the concept of successful aging - probably in part because like everyone, I am aging too. Along with research from the McArthur Foundation, I have personally interviewed several hundred highly functioning seniors. I assure my patients to successfully age they need to get their numbers right: weight, waistline, cholesterol, and 10,000 steps a day. But another critical ingredient to successful aging is engagement. Seniors live longer, keep their minds in tact and have fewer hospitalizations when they are engaged in helping others.

If you are not already engaged in something, why not think about the Community Foundation? Establishing an endowed fund allows you to leave a lasting legacy that benefits the community now and forever. The dollars you contribute now or bequeath to the Foundation are managed by community leaders combined with one of the most respected investment firms in the industry. You can trust the fact that the Foundation offers sound advice should you need suggestions on where you might direct the proceeds from your Fund. The Foundation has become a community leader in identifying new areas of need and convening other groups to work together to address the needs.

Over the past 26 years, the Foundation has grown its endowment from $100,000 to nearly $60 million. Every year, in good times and bad, our growing philanthropic endowment allows us to reinvest millions back into the community, making all of our lives better. Our success is credited to our donors who are active, engaged philanthropists who know our community will be healthier for it.

I leave as President of the Community Foundation healthier myself, and optimistic because I know the work of the Foundation will continue forever. I am very, very proud to be a participant as we work together to ensure that Albuquerque is the best place it can be for all our neighbors.

Grants in Action

Here we recognize the results of recently awarded grants, whether large or small, and the significant impact they have on strengthening the Greater Albuquerque Community.

A grant to NM Conference of Churches for Parole Empowerment Partners provides mentors to work with youth who have been paroled. Together they set goals and work toward achieving them. Goals include satisfying the conditions of the parole agreement, graduating or getting a GED, finding and keeping employment, completing community service and avoiding substance abuse/relapse. Here, a successful young man poses with his mentors.

Friends of Puppet & Object Theatre received a Foundation grant to perform 21 bilingual performances at Head Start and APS Even Start of “Peek-a-boo”, an Object Theatre play that has been performed in six countries in four languages and uses symbolic objects as characters. All shows are for underserved preschoolers who rarely, if ever, see live theater. Children, teachers and parents deeply appreciate the shows. One parent commented, “The intended effects of the performance really do last beyond the show, clearly a success of the research and fine-tuning. The children feel the emotion being expressed, they have to think about what is happening and anticipate the next adventure, but are also intrigued and entertained at the unexpected contained within.”

“Jump Start on a New Life” is a program developed by St. Martin’s Hospitality Center, a drop-in center for homeless people. The site averages 246 visitors each weekday. The majority of these people have no job or money, are homeless and destitute. A surprisingly large number are victims of theft, losing their wallet, purse or backpack and their identification along with it. A Foundation grant was used to “jump-start” lives by funding vouchers to obtain birth certificates so state IDs or driver’s licenses could be obtained, thus allowing homeless individuals to apply for state welfare benefits, Social Security Disability or Retirement, and enroll their children in school.

A grant from the Nicholas C. Nellos Memorial Fund to Advocacy, Inc. for the “New Mexico Guardianship Project” helps to prevent ongoing child abuse, neglect and abandonment by obtaining uncontested legal guardianships and adoptions for the caregivers of these children. This project ensures that a child remains in the caregiver’s home (many times, the grandparents’) until the parent is truly able to care for the child. Legal guardianship also ensures access to social and financial services such as Medicaid and Food Stamps and connects the caregiver to needed therapy, clothing and educational resources.

Founded in 1982, Ronald McDonald House Charities of New Mexico helps families with critically ill and injured children who must travel to Albuquerque for medical care. A grant from the Sandia Foundation administered through the Community Foundation was awarded to help with an expansion to build 12 new bedrooms in the House, which will serve an additional 400 families each year.

The Foundation’s young donor group, the Future Fund awarded a grant to the Nicodemus Wilderness Project. Nicodemus educates the public about the importance of protecting the wild lands and waters. The Future Fund grant was for the “Apprentice Ecologist Initiative” which works to elevate disadvantaged kids and teens into leadership roles by engaging them in environmental cleanup and habitat restoration projects. A total of 75 youth volunteers are participating in the program.

A grant to UNM Research Service Learning Program was made from the McCune Charitable Foundation through the Community Foundation for the Endorphine Power Company. “RSLP” identifies meaningful projects and issues for UNM courses so students can be involved in learning the reality of the world beyond the campus. “EPC” is dedicated to working with substance dependent and homeless people. Students enrolled in one UNM English course learn through literature about addiction and life and also contribute their labor to improve the EPC facilities.

The McCune Foundation has awarded a second grant through the Foundation to the RSLP’s most ambitious project yet—the Hunger Initiative which began this spring.
The Foundation accepts memorial contributions in any amount. The family may choose to establish a named endowment fund as a permanent legacy or grant the money to a nonprofit organization. An endowed Memorial Fund begins with a $5,000 contribution.

One of the Memorial Funds the Foundation administers is the Bryan Cline Memorial Soccer Scholarship Fund established in 1987 in Bryan’s memory. The fund provides scholarships to Eldorado High School varsity soccer players selected on the basis of leadership, scholastic record and need.

When Bryan’s grandfather Bill passed away recently, his wife Betty Jo, invited friends to donate to Bryan’s fund in his grandfather’s name. As with all Memorial gifts, a list of contributor names was sent to Mrs. Cline. She returned the following note:

Thank you for sending the report to me. This report was very special to me with mention of the Memorial Gifts in Bill’s name. I hope the Foundation is continuing to grow and do so well. You have no idea how much it has helped to ease the pain of Bryan’s death for our family to know that something is being done in his memory. We thank you.

Sincerely,
Betty Jo Cline

The Foundation is pleased to invite nominations for the 2008 Change Award. This honor will be awarded at our Annual Luncheon on Thursday, September 11, 2008, and a grant of $1,000 will be made in the recipient’s name to a public charity of the recipient’s choice.

• The individual must be an employee of a nonprofit agency which primarily serves the greater Albuquerque area.
• The individual must have made a significant impact on a recognized need of the community.
• The individual must have shown outstanding personal commitment in dealing with this need (over and above their job responsibilities).
• The individual must have exhibited exceptional initiative.

The winner will be chosen by a committee of independent community leaders familiar with the nonprofit community (not Community Foundation staff).

The nominations deadline is August 15, 2008.

“Be the Change You Wish to See In the World”
Gandhi

The New Mexico Plan to End Hunger. The overarching goal of the plan is to move New Mexico’s national ranking from #1 to #5 in food insecurity. To date, over 30 private and public organizations are collaborating to reach this goal. The first priority of the plan is to eliminate childhood hunger. The summer months are the highest months of hunger because children are not in school receiving USDA free breakfasts and lunches. This summer, as a result of the Plan, 37 Food Summer Program Sites are being funded across the state that will feed over 5,600 children. The sites will provide breakfast, lunch and backpacks filled with take home snacks as well as intergenerational activities while the children are on site. Several sites will also feed seniors. Diane and others have already raised $260,000 in funding, leveraging an additional $296,000 in federal funding! Other goals of the plan are to provide adequate food for seniors, improve access to food in rural and underserved communities, encourage full participation in public food assistance programs and to create awareness of hunger in New Mexico.

If you would like more information on donating money or volunteering to help feed New Mexicans, contact the Community Foundation at (505)883-6240.
In addition to the role as a leader in encouraging philanthropy and grantmaking, the Community Foundation works with other nonprofit organizations to establish and build their own endowment funds within the Foundation. All nonprofit organizations can benefit from the annual distribution an endowment fund with the Foundation provides. These funds—commingled with the other funds of the Foundation—provide better investment opportunities than any one smaller fund invested separately. Organizations are free to add to their endowments at any time and have the option of receiving their annual distribution or reinvesting for growth of their fund. The Foundation currently holds the endowments of nearly eighty nonprofit organizations.

Following are a few of the Philanthropy Central funds established recently:

New Mexico Academy of Science Endowment Fund
Founded in 1902, the New Mexico Academy of Science has been in continuous existence since 1915. The Academy is a member of the National Association of Academies of Science and an affiliate of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The New Mexico Academy of Science works with teachers, state agencies, and the legislature to establish appropriate standards for the teaching of the sciences. The Academy can also act as a resource center, providing scientific advice and expertise to these groups and others.

Manzano Day School Kathy Rimsha Fund
Manzano Day School Wings 3 Fund
Founded in 1938, making it the oldest elementary school in New Mexico, Manzano Day School is nationally recognized as a Blue Ribbon School of Excellence and is the only accredited ISAS (Independent Schools Association of the Southwest) elementary school in Albuquerque. The dedicated faculty, with 55% of the teachers with tenure of ten or more years, teaches traditional subjects but has taken new approaches to teaching them using the “F.A.S.T.” Reading Program (Foundations of Analysis, Synthesis and Translation) and “Mel Levine's Schools Attuned” program. With these two new funds, Manzano now has six permanent funds managed by the Foundation.

Menaul School Endowment Fund
As the oldest college preparatory middle and high school in Albuquerque, Menaul School is a faith-based school serving students in grade six through twelve. Menaul provides small classes, caring and talented teachers and individual attention all in a diverse and safe learning environment. The school’s academic program places an emphasis on preparing its students for success in college, teaching them to engage the world as lifelong learners and ethical leaders in service to the community while respecting the Christian tradition. Since its first graduating class in 1906, more than 90% of Menaul graduates have gone on to higher education. In more recent years, that number has increased to 95% of graduates continuing their post-secondary school education. The Menaul School Endowment Fund was established with a bequest from Zack and Laura Clem.

New Mexico Voices for Children Endowment Fund
Founded in 1987 by a group of pediatricians, New Mexico Voices for Children (NMVC) is a progressive, nonpartisan, statewide advocacy organization. NMVC works to eliminate child poverty and improve the health and well-being of New Mexico’s children, families and communities by shaping public policy. The agency focuses on evidence-based advocacy and conducts rigorous research and data analysis. NMVC is guided by four Core Values: Human Rights (that everyone has the right to racial, ethnic and gender equality); Healthy Communities (that everyone has the right to affordable health care, quality education and safe neighborhoods); Economic Justice (that everyone has the right to economic opportunity and prosperity) and Civic Participation (that everyone’s voice has a place within our government).

If your organization has been talking about the benefits of an endowed fund, or would like to explore the benefits of working together with other nonprofits and the Foundation, contact us at (505)883-6240.
Samaritan Counseling Center

Thanks to a generous challenge gift of $500,000, the Samaritan Counseling Center’s Campaign for Hope is more than halfway toward its $2.2 million goal. Providing funds for expanding services and building the Center’s endowment to $3 million to sustain service for the future, more than $1.2 million has been raised so far. Sherman McCorkle, one of the campaign’s leaders, has invited other donors to help meet the challenge of responding to the crisis of dwindling mental health services in the state. McCorkle says “Samaritan has become one of the largest private providers of mental health care in New Mexico, and is determined to meet the growing need for care among the poor and uninsured.” Contributions to Samaritan’s campaign can be made through the Samaritan Counseling Center Fund at the Albuquerque Community Foundation. Contact Dr. Paul Hopkins, Samaritan’s Executive Director, at (505)842-5300, or ACF staff for more information.

All the Best to a Great Friend

Michael Walker, CPA

Being the excellent planner that he is, Mike Walker retired as a principal from REDW Business and Financial Resources, LLC. at the same time his extensive term on the Foundation’s Board of Trustees expired. Mike served nine years on the Board, first as treasurer, then president and returned for another term as treasurer. He also served on every individual committee, the 25th Anniversary Committee and on the search committee for the Foundation’s executive director. Over the course of his career, Mike served on countless business and volunteer boards and was honored in 2004 with the Dixon Memorial Award – the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants “AICPA” highest award for tax service. Today Mike is spending his well deserved retirement years commuting between Sarasota, Florida and Alto, New Mexico.

Foundation Board News

Through Communiqués, you are invited to meet the Foundation’s Board of Trustees. Here are four:

Julia Bowdich
Partner, Cinco Bisco LLC, Real Estate

Julie began her career at Albuquerque National Bank and later moved to work in the family business, Rust Tractor, where she worked until it sold in 2002. Today Julie manages the family real estate and investment business. Julie is an active community leader having served on the boards of the NM Natural History and Sciences Foundation, the Albuquerque Museum Foundation, Presbyterian Healthcare Systems Central New Mexico and a member of the Medical Executive Committee at PHS. She is the immediate past chair and current active board member of the Presbyterian Healthcare Foundation Board and also serves on the Samaritan Counseling Center Foundation and NDI Boards. Julie has served on the Foundation’s Investment, Audit, Trusteeship and Development Committees.

Rick Johnson
Chairman, Rick Johnson and Co., Inc.

Rick Johnson established Rick Johnson & Company, Inc. (RJC) in 1977. The full-service ad agency serves clients throughout the United States and has won more than 1,500 creative awards. Rick has a long and deep involvement in the civic, social and cultural affairs of Albuquerque and New Mexico. Rick has served on the Foundation’s Marketing and Organization Advancement committees. As many of you know, Rick was diagnosed with cancer late last year. He has recently undergone surgery to battle the disease. Our thoughts and prayers are with him and his family. We look forward to the day when Rick returns to active service on our Board; his expertise and great sense of humor are greatly missed.

James N. King
President, Bradbury Stamm Construction

In 1972, Jim King joined the Bradbury Stamm Construction Company and rose within the ranks of the firm. In 1979, he became President. Jim is an active community volunteer serving on nonprofit boards including Presbyterian Healthcare Systems Foundation, Samaritan Counseling Center Foundation and Albuquerque Museum Foundation. Jim has served on the Foundation’s Real Estate, Development and Grantmaking committees.

John P. Salazar, Esq.
Director, Rodey, Dickason, Sloan, Akin & Robb, PA.

John Salazar’s professional experience and current practice are in the areas of real estate, land use and development law, as well as municipal and administrative law. He has substantial litigation experience, particularly in the eminent domain area in which his litigation practice is currently focused. He chairs the Rodey Law Firm’s Business Department and served as the first Chairman of its Environment and Natural Resources Department and is also a member of the Firm’s Executive Committee. Mr. Salazar’s extensive community involvement includes past service as the Chairman of the Board of the Greater Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, University of New Mexico Alumni Association, and most recently, Albuquerque Hispano Chamber of Commerce. John has served on the Foundation’s Audit and Trusteeship committees.
Ethics in Business Award

The Foundation was selected for the 2008 Samaritan Counseling Center’s New Mexico Ethics in Business Award in the Not-for-Profit category. According to the committee, ACF was chosen because “the organization demonstrates business excellence and the highest standards of ethical conduct, integrity and civic and social responsibility.” The Albuquerque Journal referred to the winners of this year’s New Mexico Ethics in Business Award as, “The Good Guys.” We thank all of our donors and friends who have supported the Foundation over its first 26 years.

Nancy Thompson Harris Award for Excellence in Teaching Literature

The 2008 award was given to Valorie Rigby of La Cueva High School. Ms. Rigby uses mystery novels to engage students in conversations about serious topics and has found they often appeal to low achievers, assisting them in becoming better readers, as well as AP and honors students in expanding their reading repertoires. “I feel I have achieved the golden treasure of friendship with my students, my friends, colleagues, and myself when I am able to converse with them about the latest and best mystery.” A $2,500 grant was awarded to Ms. Rigby during the Senior Assembly at La Cueva in May by Nancy Johnson, Community Foundation Program Director, and Susan Ryan and Paul Hagedom, retired APS English teachers and friends of Nancy Thompson Harris. This fund was established in 1997 by former trustee Curtis Brewer and his wife Diane in memory of Diane’s sister Nancy Thompson Harris, a Senior and Honors English teacher at Sandia High School.

Giving Circles

A giving circle is a pooled fund that makes grants to benefit the community. Members of the circle pool their time, talent, and resources to impact social change. Giving Circles make philanthropy accessible to people who are at different income levels and stages of their careers and lives. The Foundation currently administers two giving circles, the Future Fund and Maggie’s Giving Circle. Recently, Maggie’s Giving Circle hosted a breakfast with guest speakers Gerald and Liesa Martinez who you may remember were recently featured on the television show, “Extreme Makeover”. Gerald is the pastor of Joshua’s Vineyard Church in the economically disadvantaged La Mesa/Trumbull neighborhood. They work and live in the neighborhood and open their home to neighbors in need because they believe that most people have a good side and a little trust and compassion can help to turn a life around. When they were chosen to be recipients of an Extreme Home Makeover, they once again thought of their neighbors living in homes that needed electrical, plumbing and other maintenance. Rather than simply enjoying the benefits of the amazing makeover done on their own home, they parlayed the media exposure into a neighborhood makeover. According to Shelley Markham, an Advisory Council member of Maggie’s Giving Circle, “The Martinez’s commitment to their community touched the lives of many. They turned the Extreme Home Makeover into a community effort to make over the whole neighborhood. Ultimately, 50 homes were improved through the broadcast. ‘Everyone can make a difference’ may sound like a cliché, but we see it every single day. The Martinez family is a splendid example.”

The FUNd

The FUNd was established in 1988 by an anonymous donor who “strongly believes that the promotion of the artistic and cultural life of our community has unlimited rewards for future generations.” The latest piece supported by the FUNd was recently installed at Tingley Beach. “La Laguna de Los Sueños” is a series of six dream-like sculptures of the natural environment. This installation completes a three-year project of Tingley Beach art funded through the FUNd.
Letter from the Board President

In my first letter as President of the Foundation’s Board of Trustees, I would like to begin by thanking Dr. Barry Ramo for the outstanding leadership he has exhibited over the past two years. Barry’s vision has resulted in a vibrant advancement plan that will shepherd the Foundation’s work over the next few years. It is now our challenge to nurture and develop this vision as our mission continues to unfold.

It is our intent to be more inclusive and to truly engage the younger entrepreneurs and rising leaders of the community. Members joining our Board this year are Karen Bard, Vice President and Wealth Management Advisor for Merrill Lynch, Nestor Romero, President of The Payroll Company, Inc., and Regulatory Consultants, Inc., and Kevin Yearout, President of Yearout Mechanical, Inc. You’ll learn more about them in the next issue of the Communiqué.

One of my major focuses over the next two years is to work on a program developed by Foundation Trustee Larry Lujan of the Manuel Lujan Agencies designed to engage corporations in focusing their philanthropic giving to reflect their culture. It has been my experience that Albuquerque is filled with socially responsible businesses that want to improve our quality of life but are not always clear on how this should be done. Our message is that we can provide a vehicle to achieve their goals. It is becoming clear to me that the annual fund raiser has a shelf life and many businesses are looking for new ways to stay engaged in giving to the community. Often their interests can be served well on a permanent basis through some form of endowed giving.

We will also research the area of payment in lieu of taxes (PILOT). Many of the companies in our community receive Industrial Revenue Bonds “IRB” funding which significantly reduces or eliminates property taxes. As these businesses develop and cash flows increase, endowments can be established to reinvest some of the new revenue in the community.

There is a new generation of creative and growing businesses that can capitalize on the opportunity to contribute. By using the tools described above, we can help them organize their efforts and provide the alternative of endowment that will make their employees proud to be a part of the business’s new and growing philanthropic strategy.

Our immediate challenge will be to maintain and grow sustainable strategies in trying economic times. With a continued focus on expanded and innovative engagement and the help of our outstanding Board of Trustees, we can continue the rapid growth we have experienced over the last two years. I challenge each of you to partner with us as we work to achieve our mission: “Build, invest and manage the endowment to enhance the quality of our community through informed, strategic grantmaking.”

Vic Chavez

Letter from the Executive Director

As I read the letters written by outgoing President Barry Ramo and incoming President Vic Chavez, I can’t help but feel a great sense of pride and exhilaration.

The Foundation has flourished under Barry’s leadership. Not only have we grown the impact of the Foundation through the establishment of many new funds, we have developed a concise advancement plan that will guide us through the next several years. As Vic Chavez becomes President, I am confident he will steer the Foundation’s excellent staff to attain the benchmarks included in the advancement plan, while using his business expertise to develop innovative new vehicles for giving.

Corporate giving, family philanthropy and leadership in community issues such as Hunger will be some of our priorities this year. Wow! We’ve got a lot to do!

While I sit at my computer writing this letter, I am distracted by the sound of hammers and drills as they reconstruct the Foundation’s offices. More work space, new furnishings and the fantastic Gorham Family Conference Room, which will be available for use by any nonprofit organization, will be completed by the end of summer. Look for our open house invitation.

Reviewing this issue of our quarterly Communiqué, you’ll see it is an exciting, busy time for the Foundation. This summer marks our 27th year as a Foundation. I thank you for being a part of it.
